

BIO

Jean is an Assistant Professor in Management Science and Operations at London Business School. His research focuses on analytics for healthcare operations and prediction-based decision making. He also conducts methodological work on algorithms for machine-learning, large-scale optimization, and optimization under uncertainty. Jean earned a Ph.D. in Operations Research from MIT and a Diplome d'ingénieur from Ecole Polytechnique (France). Prior to MIT, Jean worked as an analyst in the French Venture Capital firm Ventech.