

Brief bio: Daniel Russo's research lies at the intersection of statistical machine learning and online decision making. He joined the Decision, Risk, and Operations division of the Columbia Business School as an assistant professor in Summer 2017. Prior to joining Columbia, he year as an assistant professor in the MEDS department at Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management and one year at Microsoft Research in New England as Postdoctoral Researcher. He received his PhD from Stanford University in 2015 and his BS in Mathematics and Economics from the University of Michigan.