

Mohamed Mostagir is an associate professor of Technology and Operations at the University of Michigan Ross School of Business. He is interested in social learning and belief formation in networks.